To Whom It May Concern.

I saw the article about internet access in the Rural Electric Magazine. I live in Ozark County Missouri, and my house is rural, over the required 3 miles from the phone station, and for as long as we have tried to have internet access, it has been awful.

Our local phone provider, CenturyLink will not do dial-up any longer, and have no plans to upgrade any of us in my situation to highspeed.

I found another provider, also dial-up, and while I am thankful for them, it is still awful. Downloading pictures, and forget movies, and usually forget email, which is why I am writing to you, is impossible.

Please so something affordable. Hughesnet is too expensive, Exede was too. We are not a wealthy community. But we should be able to have the same opportunities as those in the small town about 5 miles from my house.

Thank you for reading this.
